

AMERICANS NOW HOLD MARILAO

Severe Fighting Indulged in Today.

INSURGENTS LEAVE NEARLY A HUNDRED DEAD BEHIND.

Many Prisoners and Small Arms Captured—American Forces Hot on the Trail of Aguinaldo, Filipinos Have Apparently Evacuated Polo, as the Town is Burning—Millions Practically in Ruins—Thousands of Men, Women and Children Left Town and Fled Into the Interior, When Gunboats Shelled the Town.

Washington, March 27.—[Special]—The following was received from General Otis this morning: MacArthur now holds Marilao. There was severe fighting today and our casualties number about forty.

While the battle was progressing, a train and artillery of our troops met the concentrated insurgent force on the northern line today, commanded by Aguinaldo, in person, and drove them back with considerable slaughter.

They left nearly one hundred of their men dead on the field. Many prisoners and small arms were captured.

The column will press on in the morning.

General Corbin is of the opinion that the message of last night is of particular importance as showing that the American forces are not on the trail of Aguinaldo.

Aguinaldo's rear guard made a short stand at Marilao and fought fiercely. Six Americans, including the officers, were killed. Forty were wounded.

Prisoners captured today say many bodies of Aguinaldo's army retrenched at Marilao. Filipino circulars were found at every railroad station. They order that all spies and looters be shot and that towns be fired before being abandoned.

A call upon Filipinos to defend their homes, lives and lands against "the would-be dominators who would kill them, their wives and children."

The American loss in fighting thus far is between thirty and forty killed and more than two hundred wounded.

The American advance will be slow and steady and Malos will be attacked Wednesday at the latest. The American forward movement today carried them within a striking distance.

A Washington regiment had an exciting experience during the storming of Marilao. They found a body of insurgents concealed in a house over which the French flag was flying. A private volunteered to fire the building and did so. The Americans approached it while it was burning, believing the rebels had fled, but suddenly a volley was fired from the balcony of the building. The Americans, however, pressed forward and soon cleared the building.

RELEASE OF SPANISH PRISONERS

On Condition They Take Up Arms Against Americans.

Washington, March 27.—[Special]—The suspicion that Aguinaldo released the Spanish prisoners of war on the condition that they take up arms against the Americans, is confirmed by a message from General Otis, in which he says the Spaniards who remained in the power of the insurgents, have made a common cause with them.

Washington, March 27.—[Special]—The war department gave out a statement today covering the number of casualties in Saturday's and Sunday's fighting as follows: Killed, three officers and twenty-five enlisted; wounded, nine officers and 228 enlisted.

Washington, March 27.—[Special]—Gen. Otis sent an additional list of killed and wounded in the fight since the twenty-fifth. Among the wounded are: Thirteenth Minnesota, Privates Jack Hamilton and Robert Geid; First Washington, Private Robert Morin.

FILIPINOS EVACUATED POLO.

Insurgents Burning Native Villages as They Desert Them.

Manila, March 27.—[Special]—The Filipinos have apparently evacuated Polo, as the town is burning.

The insurgents are burning the native villages as fast as they desert them. Milbourn is practically in ruins.

Thousands of men, women and children bearing household goods, left the town and fled into the interior when the gunboat Helena and army gunboats shelled the place.

The Washington volunteers, who now hold Pasig, had a brush with the insurgents today. The enemy was routed, losing a number of men.

Hunger is playing havoc with the insurgents. No sooner are they taken prisoners by the Americans, than they beg for food, declaring themselves to be starving.

ADVANCE ON MALOS IS RESUMED

MacArthur's Division Led the Way This Morning.

Manila, March 27.—[Special]—The advance on Malos was resumed this morning, MacArthur's division leading the way.

The advance guard has reached Culacan, ten miles from Malolos, and the town was found to be partially burned. The insurgents in their retreat, used the torch freely, leaving ruin and desolation in their wake.

The insurgents to the south of Manila are renewing their attacks on the American line. Lawton is caring for them.

Manila, March 27.—Closely pressed by the United States troops, the Filipino army is falling back to Malolos, the seat of the so-called government. The large part of the city of Malabon, the most formidable of the native strongholds on the way to the capital, has been burned and it is believed that the retreating soldiers will destroy their elaborate fortifications in the outskirts of the city rather than see them fall into the hands of the Americans. United States gunboats have been dropping shells into the blockhouses and forts, with the result that the native force has been gradually withdrawing and moving inland out of range.

The Americans have passed all the rougher portion of the country and are now on comparatively level ground. With their present position and the district to the rear cleared of all natives, the advance from now on will be easy. It will be only a matter of hours before the United States forces are in possession of Aguinaldo's headquarters.

The troops under Brig.-Gen. Lloyd Wheaton captured the town of Malinta, beyond the Tullahan river Sunday, after a sharp fight. Col. Harry C. Egbert of the Twenty-second regular infantry was killed. Prince Loewenstein, formerly aid-de-camp on the staff of Brig.-Gen. Miller, at Iloilo, somehow got in front of the firing line and was shot in the side, dying almost instantly. A German who accompanied him was wounded.

The American casualties Sunday were much lighter than those of Saturday, the total losses thus far reported since the engagement commenced being forty-five killed and fewer than 200 wounded.

Gen. Wheaton entered Malinta, which is a small village of huts, at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The United States gunboat, Helena and other gunboats have been shelling the fortifications at Malabon, about a mile northwest of Calocan, for several hours.

The Filipinos made a fierce resistance to the American advance up the railroad to Malinta. In addition to the fatal wounding of Col. Egbert, several men of the Twenty-second infantry and several members of the Oregon and Kansas regiments were killed.

Evidently anticipating a bombardment by the fleet, 1,000 natives vacated the main part of the city of Malabon Saturday night, leaving a few to burn down the town.

Gen. Wheaton's brigade, composed of the Second Oregon regiment and the Twenty-second and Twenty-third infantry, stretched out along the railroad from Calocan to the Tullahan river, was powerless to prevent the withdrawal, owing to the natural obstacles and to the strong opposition. A column of smoke at daybreak was the first intimation of the Filipinos' intention, but others followed at various points, all soon blending in a dense balloon-shaped cloud. The flames of the burning buildings could be plainly seen from Calocan, despite the strong sunlight. By 11 o'clock in the morning the only building of importance not destroyed in the center of the town was a large stone church, but even at noon fresh fires were started among the native huts in the outskirts of Malabon, although the general exodus took place much earlier. Many of the Filipinos sought refuge in the suburbs Navotas and Casag, or were driven inland by the shells of the Helena, Callao, Ningdapan and Laguna de Bay.

In the meantime Gen. Wheaton's brigade held the railroad to the river, but was unable either to repair the bridge, which had been destroyed by the natives, or to advance, owing to the opposition and the hills on the other side.

The calculations of both Gen. Hale and Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, whose brigades constituted Gen. MacArthur's division, were much interfered with by the character of the country in front of both, and the natives were able to take advantage of this, so that the operations against Navolches and Polo were delayed, though the right wing of the division swung out, sweeping the Filipinos in a northwesterly direction.

Gen. Wheaton's headquarters Saturday night were a half-mile south of the river, on the railroad. The opposite bank was protected by a blockhouse and intrenchments. Occasionally the artillery and infantry fired across the stream. Sunday morning the engineers moved a construction train up to the bridge, the iron framework of which remained and began to replace the floor. While this was going on the Second Oregon regiment crossed the river on the left and the Twenty-second on the right, with four companies of the Twenty-third infantry supporting the latter regiment. A rising, clear ground stretched away a distance of half a mile to Malinta, situated on its crest.

In front of the village were strong Filipino intrenchments, but no Filipinos were to be seen. Apparently they had fled. The Twenty-second regiment approached diagonally, with

KENOSHA IS READY FOR NEW PHONES

FRANCHISE ALMOST CERTAIN TO BE ISSUED.

Compensation to the City in the Way of Reduced Rates on Public Instruments and Special Prices for Officials—Prospect for the Connection Law.

Kenosha, March 27.—The city of Kenosha will very likely grant the new telephone franchise. The telephone ordinance introduced in the Kenosha city council which by motion of Alderman Weier was referred to committee of the whole and with slight amendment received for consideration, grants the company the right to string wires through the street. As compensation the company agrees to furnish service to the city as the council shall direct at $12 a year per phone, also to furnish private line service to city officials at $8 a year per phone.

It is predicted that work will begin in two months and long distance connection with Chicago, Racine, Milwaukee, Janesville and Madison is promised. The incorporators are confident that the bill requiring long distance lines to allow connection with other lines will be passed by the next legislature because of the number of independent lines which are building in the state.

NO WORD FROM CASSON

Probably Expects Better Position Than That Offered by the Post-office Department.

Washington, March 27.—Perry Heath, first assistant postmaster general, said today that no information had been received from Col. Henry Casson, of Wisconsin, as to whether the latter would accept the position of inspector of rural free delivery, to which he was appointed by Mr. Heath more than a week ago. On the contrary Mr. Heath said that information had come to him that the efforts put forth to secure for Col. Casson the chief of the bureau of engraving and printing might be successful; and if the prospects were as good as reported, Col. Casson could not be expected to take the place to which he has been appointed in the postal service. The appointment was made out by Assistant Heath more than a week ago, but no information has been received from Col. Casson as to whether he would accept. [Col. Casson has said he would not take the minor position.]

Message from Gen. Otis.

Washington, March 27.—Acting Secretary Meiklejohn has received the following cablegram:

"Manila, March 26.—Adjutant-General, Washington: MacArthur's advance beyond Meicauayan, two miles beyond Polo, nine miles from Manila and fifteen miles from Malolos; railroad will be prepared to advance point tomorrow and troops supplied by cars; MacArthur will press on tomorrow; is now in open country. Insurgents stoutly resisting behind; succeeding lines of intrenchments, from which the troops continually drive them. City perfectly quiet and native inhabitants appear to be relieved of anxiety and fear of insurgents. Capt. Krayonbuh, commissary-lieutenant, Third artillery, mortally wounded. OTIS."

Booth's Bacon and Greens

We have just received a very fancy new article called Booth's Bacon and Greens. Those who know of it say it is delicious and our own personal investigation gave us such an idea of its high quality that we purchased a large lot of it, and are offering it to introduce it at 10 cents a can; the regular price being 15 cents. A peck of spinach is used for every can of the article. If you want something palatable and new try a can of this bacon and greens. Sanborn.

Lynchers in Hot Pursuit.

Topeka, Kas., March 27.—Henry Sanderson, a young farmer 22 years old, of Jackson county, in a fit of jealousy Sunday shot and mortally wounded Mrs. John Fleischer in an attempt to kill Mada Fleischer, the 16-year-old daughter, who had jilted Sanderson. A mob of angry citizens is now hunting for Sanderson in the vicinity of Mayetta, and if he is found a lynching will follow.

RACINE SELLS OUT TO SCHOOL TRUST

THE FURNITURE BUSINESS ALL
HANDLED IN EAST.

Big New Jersey Corporation Absorbs the Kane Factory on the Lake Shore, the Price Paid Being Stated as $95,000—Full Details Not Yet Published.

Racine, March 27.—The school furniture trust has secured the Racine Hardware company plant, the deal being closed Saturday night.

The deed sets forth that in consideration of the sum of $95,000, the Hardware company conveys to the American School Furniture company all its right, title and interest in all the various pieces of real estate that compose the company's property, with all machinery and appliances belonging to the Racine Hardware Co., as well as all the patents owned and controlled by the company and all contracts. In fact the entire plant and property is conveyed.

Whether the $95,000 represents the sole consideration, and whether the old stockholders in the Hardware company become new stockholders, is not known, nor can it be learned except from those who have consummated the deal.

BOUNDARIES OF NATIONS.

Barriers That Divide the Frontiers of Great Countries.

Any one who has ever happened to walk, drive or cycle, or even train through Europe knows what crossing the frontier means. Every road and every railway line has its guard and custom houses. Not a child nor a dog can pass without customs examinations and vexatious formalities of all sorts. Particularly is this the case between those old enemies, France and Germany. There is no river of any size, no line of hills, or any other natural boundary line along the northern-eastern boundary of Elsass-Lothringen and the still French Lorraine. Here a string of forts guards each side of a narrow neutral strip; strategic railways are ready to bring up at a moment's notice all the munitions of modern war; and it has been said the expense entailed on each country to run the entire government of a small country like Switzerland. Further south, the boundary between Italy and France is guarded with equal care. The Alpes-Maritimes divide the two countries and might be thought a sufficient natural barrier. But not a bit of it! Guards and blockhouses may be seen on the very summits of the bleak heights, and woe betide the unhappy tourist who unconsciously crosses the snowy boundary. Germany, too, has another frontier which gives her much trouble—that which borders on Russian Poland. The vast sandy plains which run south from Memel are sparsely inhabited, but are most carefully fortified. One curious precaution is that the main lines of railway end in termini at the frontier, and the passenger has to change on to quite a different gauge on the Russian side. This is, of course, to prevent armored trains or supplies being run through in time of war. Austria is fortunate in having natural barriers, mountains on the northwest and the great Danube on her southern flank.

Statistics of Atlantic Liners.

There are fully 1,000 tons of piping of various kinds in the average Atlantic liner. The furnaces will consume no less than 7,500,000 cubic feet of air an hour. The boiler tubes, if placed in a straight line, would stretch nearly ten miles and the condenser tubes more than twenty-five miles. The total number of separate pieces of steel in the main structure of the ship is not less than 40,000, and the total number of cubic feet of timber used in the construction is more than 10,000. The total number of rivets is not far from 1,250,000.

Green Gutta Percha.

This substance is now obtained from the leaves of the caoutchouc tree, and is said to be more durable than that procured by cutting into the stem of the tree. Unlike the ordinary product, it does not require an expensive process of purification, so that its cost is cheapened. In France green gutta percha is now being employed in the construction of submarine cables.

This pure Cream of Tartar at 25 cents per pound—we absolutely guarantee to be equal in every respect to the purest baking powder on the market. SMALL BOY UPSETS PHONES.

And Incidentally Causes the Passage of a Village Ordinance.

A telephone company in an Iowa town has made an interesting discovery and at the same time solved a mystery which has been puzzling it for weeks. The telephone lines, which had previously given good service, began a short time ago to develop all sorts of queer symptoms, the induction in some cases being so strong that a person using a receiver could hear half a dozen different people talking at once. The linemen had a bad time searching up and down the wires for the trouble. At length they found a spot where a heavy lead cable had received a shot from a 22-caliber rifle. The bullet had twisted and cut the wires and worked several varieties of damage. The injured section had to be cut out and spliced. Later on other bullet marks of the same character were discovered. It was evident that some one was in the habit of making a target of the wires, and as each shot cost the company about $25 to repair, the superintendent of the line was a little anxious as to who should pay the bill. He was not long in finding out. The son of a prominent resident of the town was caught prowling around an alley with a small rifle, shooting at birds on the wires, and inasmuch as one of the cables near his home was ruined by the shooting, it is assumed that the boy is responsible for the induction that has been bewildering and exasperating the telephone subscribers of the town. The town has determined to put in force a local ordinance which makes it just as much of a misdemeanor to shoot a target rifle within the town limits as it would be to fire off a Gatling gun. The town marshal has given instructions to the patrolmen to arrest any one seen going about with a target rifle, and mischievous boys are to be taught to let the telephone lines alone. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Rise of Russia.

Rurik, a Varangian chief, appears to have been the first to establish a monarchical government in Russia, about the year 862. His descendants ruled amid great vicissitudes till 1598. In that year Feodor I., the last of the race of Rurik, was murdered. Michael, Fedorovitch of the house of Romanoff accepted the throne in 1613. In 1682 Peter the Great began his reign and the progress of the Russian power under him and Catherine II. is unequaled for rapidity in the history of the world.

Endorsing an Ancient Cure.

Ground oyster shells were given by the mediaeval doctors to children suffering from rickets and scrofula. Now it appears that they were right. The shells contain lime, nitrogen, iron, sulphur, manganese, magnesia, flour, bromide, phosphoric acid and iodine, all excellent for feeble children. They say if growing children were to take powdered oyster shells in their food the teeth would be improved.

Torpedo Boats Under Fire.

The average distance of discovery of a torpedo-boat by the searchlight from a battleship has been calculated to be 781 yards and the greatest distance 2,000 yards. Thus, taking the distance at which the torpedo can be fired with effect at 500 yards, it will be generally found that a torpedo-boat will have to cross about 300 yards under fire from the ship she is attacking and it will take the little craft about half a minute to do this.

Diver with a Record.

The greatest diving feat ever achieved was in moving the cargo of the ship Cape Horn, wrecked off the coast of South America, when a diver named Hooper made seven descents to a depth of over 200 feet, remaining at one time forty-two minutes under the water. An authority states that the greatest depth to which a man has been known to descend does not exceed 220 feet, which is equivalent to a pressure of eighty-eight and one-half pounds to the square inch.

First Maker of Spectacles.

The invention of spectacles is often attributed to Roger Bacon, who died in 1294. Further research, however, has shown that in 1285 Savino Degli Armati, a Florentine, worked glass into the form of a lens as a help to vision. For him, therefore, may justly be claimed the honor of having invented spectacles. He died in Florence in 1317 and was buried in the Church of Santa Maria Maggiore.

GOOSE A ECONOMICAL BIRD.

One Fowl Can Be Made Into Many Different Dishes.

"The goose is a valuable and economical bird," says Miss Cornelia C. Bedford, the cooking expert in the New York Times. "But you have to understand how to make the best of it. Now, I have been given some excellent instructions from German friends, who have not fallen into American ways as yet, and their directions for making the most of a goose cannot be improved. In the first place, you must select a good, fat goose. Then, when it is ready for use lay it on its back and with a sharp knife slit the skin and the underlying fat, cutting down to the end of the breast and to the wings on the side. By slipping the knife underneath the skin and fat attached they can be removed easily. This will form the first dish of goose, and a very excellent luncheon dish. Cut this skin with the fat into finger strips, put into a pan and fry slowly until the skin is crisp, by which time most of the fat will have been dissolved; the skin turned a delicate brown, and served after being sprinkled with salt. It makes a very appetizing cold-weather luncheon dish. It can be served hot or cold. The second dish is also characteristically German, and the beautiful economy of it is that every dish is made from different parts of one and the same goose. This is a great advantage in a small family, where one roast goose is altogether too large to be eaten by the members of the family alone. The fowl, when purchased, is supposed to be entire, head and feet. To make the second dish the head must be cut off just under the bill and the neck severed from the body close up to the breastbone. It is again the skin that is to be served. This, by delicate manipulation, can be deftly slipped from the neck and kept perfectly whole. A good stuffing is then made, seasoned with any preferred flavoring, thyme, sage or onions; the skin is filled with this, sewed up at either end, sausage fashion, and then put in the oven to roast slowly. This is another excellent entree or luncheon dish. The third dish is a fricassee, and the first step toward making it is to remove the feet, scald them and pull off the tough outside skin. Put them on to boil and let them simmer slowly for two or three hours. This will give a stock which can be used for the fricassee. This is made of the neck, wings and legs, which have been cut from the bird. They may be separated into pieces; the wings into six, the neck into six and the legs into four pieces; the gizzard and heart are also used for the fricassee. The stock is used in the gravy of this fricassee, which is slightly thickened and delicately seasoned with onion. If there is cold boiled beef in the house this can be cut into small pieces and added to the fricassee about five minutes before it is taken up. The beef takes the flavor of the goose in this way and makes a larger dish to serve.

There is yet another entree, which epicures consider delicious, made from the liver of the goose. The liver has probably been enlarged by the method of raising the bird and is very tender. Liver en brochette the dish is called. The liver is cut into slices or small pieces, which are placed on wooden skewers alternately with pieces of bacon; if the liver is a large one there will be two or three skewers of the liver and bacon. When it is all in place the whole is dusted with salt and pepper and broiled over a clear fire, or it may be dipped in beaten egg and crumbs and fried in deep fat. There is yet the piece de resistance. This is made from the body of the goose, which yet remains, very much reduced in size, but it will make an excellent pot roast. This is cooked after the manner of the ordinary pot roast, of beef, well browned, and the last part of this most economical bird is just as good as the first."

SUNDAY WORSHIP AT THE CHURCHES

JANESVILLE CHURCH GOERS TURN OUT EN MASSE.

Rev. A. G. Wilson Preached on the Use and Abuse of the Imagination in Religion. Rev. Kempton Gave Third Sermon in Series, "Fresh Light on Old Truth."

Rev. A. G. Wilson preached in All Souls' church yesterday morning on "The Use and Abuse of the Imagination in Religion," taking the figure of Jacob's dream as the scriptural reading. Among other things he said:

A religion without its idealities will be powerless to move or comfort men. A human spirit is too large to be confined within the limits of rocks and stars. In religion where I cannot walk I will go in dreams, and where I cannot enter with actual presence I will fling my fancies. To the heights I cannot scale with feet I will fly with hope, and the scene I cannot look upon with eyes I will picture in my imagination. For if there be no heaven of rapturous joys or reunions of happy spirits, the world will sing and dream of them until the black sky is blazing with light. And may not our dreams be prophetic of these realities?

It would be hazardous, to good sense and morals to enforce dreams as a safe medium of divine revelation for human action. Dangerous to assume that God talks with men most willingly when they are asleep. For if you will recall the history of the religious movements of irrational character and sometimes immoral tendency, you will find they had their beginning in a dream. And when anybody wanted a special revelation they always went to sleep to get it. Emanuel Swedenburg dreamed, and his visions are the charm and the guide of some of the noblest of earth. Anna Lee dreamed and the Shakers began their contortions. Every socialistic and religious community that has withdrawn from common life for the practice of their ideas have invariably been a company of dreamers, often brilliant, but always visionary and impracticable. Joseph Smith had a dream and from his vision started a moving insane asylum, and before it reached Utah it became a house of prostitution, and this nation has had fifty years of legislation to chase that phantom away. And I do not forget Brook Farm of Unitarian origin, none the less visionary because of its high personal character.

Of the dreams of philosophy I wish to speak. There are prominent in the world today two divergent trends of thought among those who are in search for the ultimate principles of life. The one seeks to stand face to face with the ego the essence of being and interprets all the phenomena of matter as a mere shadow of that hidden essence. The other travels outward and sees in matter the sum and substance of all that is. The former is the oriental philosophy based on the dreamy speculations of occultism. The latter is the deductions of purely scientific data and these have developed a new cult that attempts an explanation of the laws governing unusual mental phenomena.

This oriental habit of thought that seeks to wrap itself up in itself to the exclusion of all external impressions is a species of intellectual monasticism and is certain to cause a sleep filled with dreams that may become the normal state. Men will have a religion that satisfies a spiritual demand and in the shifting of the current theology all are not attracted by unadorned scientific statements.

It is a dangerous habit to look inward with steadfast gaze. The inner domain is as vast as the outer, and more mysterious. Its seas are all broad and deep, and more treacherous. Its forests are as dense and more difficult of exploration. Many a man has gone so far into himself as not to have returned again to earth. And yet there may be a philosophy more subtle than reason and deeper than tears. "For I am persuaded that there are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in thy philosophy." But then I say that the inward look shut in from earth makes dreamers of men and divorces thought from the main business of life. It is a fact that the asylums of the world are filled with subjective philosophers.

It is the man who thinks to all points of the compass that keeps his moral and mental balance.

Nothing but the scientific spirit and method will rescue religion from error and superstition. A half truth is more dangerous than a whole falsehood. It is prudent to make a half dollar do the business of a whole dollar whether in religion or commerce. We need the ideal, but we need the practical earth to give us true standards of measurements. The Baptist Church.

Rev. Kempton gave the third sermon in the series "Fresh Light Upon Old Truth." The subject was "The Holiness of God." His text was in Isa. 6:3 and Rev. 4:8.

Science and religion are not foes, but friends. Science exalts God. Geology and astronomy both find and recognize God. The microscope finds in every small thing of creation the presence of God. Let us look at the holiness of God. It is a fact that He is holy.

The holiness of God is his goodness. Scripture declares his holiness. All religious nations have some conception of holiness. In the idolatry of the heathen we find the idea of holiness. We cannot think of God without thinking of his holiness. Our own conscience tells us of God's holiness. God's goodness. The better our hearts and lives are, the more we realize the holiness of God.

Again, God's holiness is seen in his laws. The moral life of God is the proofsheet of God's nature. He who would criticize the work of God, finds fault with God himself.

Should a holy God pardon all? He pardons all who will turn from their sins, but he cannot pardon those who will not turn from sin. It would not be in harmony with his just nature.

If God would pardon the unrepentant sinner he would make the justice of heaven lower than the justice of earth. He must be just if he is the holy God. He cannot let his love overcome his justice.

A great day is coming when men shall crown God as the holy one of Israel. Will you and I be there? Let us come to Him in His own appointed way, through His own Son, Jesus the Saviour of the world.

The Y. P. S. O. E. topic was, "Giving our best to God." The meeting was led by Miss Nettie Shepherd.

Mr. Kempton's evening subject was, "Seeking the Lord."

SHE APPEALS FOR A DIVORCE

Action Taken by Abbie Beeson Carrington.

Abbie Beeson Carrington, the well known Wisconsin singer, formerly associated with the Abbey-Grau and Strakosch opera companies in Italian opera, has begun an action for divorce from her husband, Adelbert P. Carrington, in a Chicago court. The charges against the defendant are non-support and cruelty. The defendant did not appear in court, and after the evidence was all heard, the court ordered it written up, and will probably grant the decree of divorce.

The couple were married in Fond du Lac in 1872, from which city Mrs. Carrington began her musical career, and where she has passed her summers. She is well known in Janesville, and has several close friends here whom she has visited.

The many Chicago physicians who now owe "Orangeine" pronounce it a wonderful safe and useful combination.

JOHN THOROUGHGOOD LEADS DEMOCRATS

MAYOR ACCEPTS THE STRAIGHT NOMINATION.

"The Boys Delivered the Goods," Although It Looked at One Time as if the Triangle's Promise Would Be Broken—The Other Candidates Named.

Mayor.....JOHN THOROUGHGOOD
City Clerk.....FRANK S. GEORGE
Street Commissioner.....C. K. MILLMORE
School Commissioner at Large.....JAMES E. LAMB
Justice of the Peace.....CHARLES E. DUNN
Sealer of Weights and Measures.....EDGAR RICHARDSON

"The boys" succeeded in "delivering the goods." At one time Saturday afternoon it looked as if the triangle would be balked by the rank and file, but the delegates were finally rounded up, and the nomination of John Thoroughgood was forced. Mr. Thoroughgood has accepted, and is the straight democratic nominee. His name cannot go on the ticket but once under the present law, and hence he cannot be an "independent candidate."

The triangle had agreed to nominate Mr. Thoroughgood, and all doubts as to its ability to do so were dispelled when the democratic city convention was called to order at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening.

P. J. Mout was elected chairman, and J. J. Cunningham was made secretary. Will Kimball, T. B. Leahy and Harry Garbutt were appointed tellers.

J. L. Mahoney presented the name of John Thoroughgood, and he was declared the nominee of the convention for mayor, by acclamation, the triangle having arranged the machinery perfectly.

The following city committee was then appointed and adjournment was taken.

At Large—P. J. Mout.
First Ward—J. P. Baker.
Second Ward—J. F. Hutchinson.
Third Ward—C. C. Russell.
Fourth Ward—J. F. Connors.
Fifth Ward—J. B. McLean.

Nerves, stomach and liver are all aided by "Orangeine," hence its quick and safe action on colds and headaches.

BIG HOUSE FOR "ROSEMARY"

Otis Skinner and His Company Welcomed by Janesville Play-Goers

A play full of charm, a company of merit; a house alive with quick appreciation.

All these factors distinguished the "Rosemary" performance Saturday evening.

The piece ranks far above most of the successes of the last three seasons. In dramatic detail it is thoroughly artistic, whatever may be thought of appending a fifth act when the story is to all intents and purposes finished in the fourth. The sketching of character is done with strong and decisive strokes; the comedy is logical and spontaneous, and the dialogue above the average.

As for the presentation it was by no means wholly dependent upon the star. Several of the leading parts were taken by members of the original John Drew and Maude Adams combination. Otis Skinner himself was the lodestone, however, that drew play goers past the box office window, until nearly every seat in the house has been sold. He has been a constant favorite in Janesville since his first appearance here with Medjeska, and his entrance Saturday evening was the signal for hearty applause.

As "Sir Jasper Thorndyke" Mr. Skinner was very happy, although it might be complained by those not under the spell of his personality that he lacked repose in some of the more intense passages. He acted with abundant dash and spirit and won frequent applause. Three times he was called before the curtain.

As said before, his support was very satisfactory. Gretchen Lyons made a most charming Dorothy and might even emerge triumphant from comparison with Maude Adams in the same part.

THEY RIDICULE IT

Many People Ridicule the Idea of An Absolute Cure For Dyspepsia and Stomach Troubles

Ridicule, However, is Not Argument, and Facts Are Stubborn Things

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases, so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their indolence, in never being humbugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation as reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, hydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they cur powerfully on any organ, but they cur indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never had and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meal digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or half digested is poison as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh and appetite and many other troubles which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., for little book on stomach diseases, sent free.

TELL AN INTERESTING STORY

Two Cuban Papers Received By R. G. Moore, of This City

Two Cuban papers sent by John Kienow to G. B. Moore, of this city, tell an interesting story to those who read between the lines. One is "The Times of Cuba" and is printed half in Spanish and half in English. Its editorials are fair and well balanced and it seems to be working for the welfare of all classes on the island. The other is "The Daily American" and bears the subhead "An American paper, published by Americans for Americans." From all indications the Americans it represents are American contractors and office-seekers and it seems very vigorous in their behalf.

ALE THAT IS HEALTHFUL

The main difference between good and bad Ale is in the after effects—not the taste. You discover part of that difference. You notice for one thing that pure all Boub's ale—doesn't make you bilious. But that main difference goes unnoticed.

Pure Ale is Good for you, bad ale is unhealthful. Either effect is so gradual you do not know what caused them. Two things are certain. First, pure ale is the right ale—purity is more important than you think. Second, Boub's Ale is pure Ale. People who drink it say it is far ahead of any and equal to famous Bass Ale. Case 2 dozen plates delivered, $2.00.

GROWTH OF NATION'S TRADE.

Foreign Commerce of the United States from 1879.

MERCHANDISE AND SPECIE.

Interesting Report of the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics—Marked Excess of Exports—The Country Rapidly Liquidating Its Foreign Indebtedness.

Washington, March 27.—A picture of the foreign commerce of the United States from the adoption of the constitution to the present time is presented in a single table, which forms a part of the recently issued report of the chief of the bureau of statistics. This table shows the imports and exports and excess of imports or exports in each year since the adoption of the constitution, and includes both merchandise and specie.

The total imports of merchandise in the entire period are $29,979,961,487, and the total exports $30,952,202,985, making the excess of exports of merchandise $972,241,498. The total imports of gold and silver are $1,940,150,320 and the exports $3,402,623,581, making the excess of exports of specie $1,462,473,261. Combining these the table shows the total imports of merchandise and specie in the entire period as $31,920,111,807, the exports as $34,352,826,566 and the excess of exports $2,432,714,759.

Commenting upon these figures the report says:

"Two important facts seem to be suggested by a study of this balance sheet of our international trade: First, that our people are rapidly liquidating their foreign indebtedness; second, that for the sake of accuracy in our accounts of foreign commerce all statements of values of imports and exports should be made with reference to a common point, viz., the door through which they enter and leave the country."

"In the above attempt to balance the accounts of our international trade the sums estimated annually expended for freights on imports are included in the additions made to the stated valuation of imported merchandise, while those on exports do not affect the statements of value at point of exportation."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

This remedy is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and influenza. It has become famous for its cures of these diseases, over a large part of the civilized world. The most flattering testimonials have been received, giving account of its good works; of the aggravating and persistent coughs it has cured; of severe colds that have yielded promptly to its soothing effects, and of the dangerous attacks of croup it has cured, often saving the life of the child. The extensive use of it for whooping cough has shown that it robs that disease of all dangerous consequences. Sold by People's Drug Co.

Meets in Chicago April 10.

Washington, March 27.—Senator Mason's special committee, appointed by the senate to investigate the subject of pure foods, will meet in Chicago about April 10 for the purpose of taking the testimony of packers and others engaged in exporting food products.

I have been afflicted with rheumatism for fourteen years and nothing seemed to give any relief. I was able to be around all the time, but constantly suffering. I had tried everything. I could hear of and at last was told to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I did, and was immediately relieved and in a short time cured. I am happy to say that it has not since returned.—Josh. Edgar, Germantown, Cal. For sale by People's Drug Co.

PACKERS TESTIFY AGAIN.

Army-Beef Court Resumes Session in Washington Today.

Washington, March 27.—The army beef court of inquiry resumed its hearings here to-day, and Maj. Lee has summoned representatives of the Chicago packers to testify. Edward Morris of Nelson Morris & Co., Mr. Swift and a representative of the Armour company are here. Maj. Lee has heard that the Nelson-Morris company has a large consignment of canned roast beef in a warehouse on Staten island, which was purchased and sent to southern camps, and he wants to bring out this in the testimony. Mr. Morris will tell the court about it. It will not be a sensational story, but a statement of the fact that his company has a depot on Staten island, where it keeps beef for the export trade. The canned beef which was in this depot when bought for the army had been canned less than thirty days, and had not been canned sixty days when used.

Work and Worry

Completely Prostrated. Doctors, Sanitariums and Traveling Failed to Benefit. Cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

When the nerves and organs of the body are well and strong, and the worn-out tissues and waste products are quickly removed from the system, a tremendous amount of hard work can be done without serious injury. It is when the nerve tissues and brain cells are used up faster than they are replaced by new ones, when the fires of life consume faster than the fuel can be furnished, that brain, nerves and vital organs suffer—cry out with neuralgia, heart disease, rheumatism, nervous dyspepsia—and finally break down. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine if food for the worn-out brain and wasted tissues. It gives a healthy appetite; makes the weak stomach strong; increases the flow of digestive juices and puts the lazy liver to work. It is the greatest blood vitalizer and nerve remedy that medical science has yet produced.

J. W. Hill, Eureka Springs, Ark., writes: "Several years ago I suffered a severe attack of nervous prostration, brought on by overwork and worry. I would go for weeks with almost no sleep, and I became entirely unfitted for business. I traveled in the hope of finding relief and tried numerous physicians. Visited a great specialist in Washington, D. C., spent several months at sanitariums in Michigan and Wisconsin, but with no good results. After spending several thousand dollars I returned home convinced that I could not be cured. A friend induced me to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and I obtained relief in a short time. In a few months my health returned and I was again my old self. Three years have passed since that time, during which I have not found it necessary to use any medicine whatever."

Mr. M. H. Butterfield, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, says: "Although reluctant to appear before the public as an endorser of a prepared medicine, I have received so much benefit from Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine that I feel it is my duty to give a brief statement of my experience with it. Two years ago I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia brought on by overwork and worry connected with my store management. Having heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine I decided to give it a trial. After using four bottles I was entirely relieved of all distress. I do, however, use the remedy whenever overworked, tired or sleepless, and it never yet has failed to give instant relief."

"Hard work and the worry and care of household duties broke down by health and for several years I suffered from nervous prostration. I could not concentrate my thoughts and was unable to confine myself to any one thing. For years I could not direct my household affairs, could have no care whatever and never for one night did I sleep over one hour at a time. My stomach was very weak, headaches severe. We spent hundreds of dollars for doctors and medicine without relief. After having been taken to Chicago for treatment without obtaining any benefit, I lost all hope of recovery and became almost distracted. One day a pamphlet was left at my house and I saw a testimonial in it from a lady who had been cured of similar trouble with Dr. Miles' Nervine, so I determined to give that medicine a trial. After taking seven bottles I had fully recovered my health, and now I do my own housework and those terrible headaches and sleepless nights are things of the past."

Mrs. Wm. A. Thompson, Broadway and Mill St., Columbus, Wis.

VICTOR P. RICHARDSON

Victor P. Richardson, the republican candidate for mayor, is one of Janesville's best known citizens. He was born and raised in Janesville, and is the son of Hon. and Mrs. Hamilton Richardson. A man of strong personality, keen business sagacity, excellent education, and rugged integrity, he has won the esteem of all who know him. Being naturally of a studious and enterprising disposition, he has made a close study of Janesville's system of city government. Mr. Richardson was quick to recognize the defects in the system, and when he saw them, he called the public attention to the weak spots in a direct business-like way. The first paper he read at the Twilight club, opened the eyes of the people, and showed the thoroughness and scope of his investigation—for the city officers themselves admitted that Mr. Richardson knew more about the subject than did the men in whose hands the management of affairs was placed. This paper was widely and favorably commented upon, and others prepared later added to Mr. Richardson's reputation as a student of municipal problems. Although Mr. Richardson may not know it himself, yet his "boom" for mayor was born the night that he read his celebrated paper before the Twilight club, and his unanimous nomination is the direct result of the public favor with which the document was received—not because people thought he would force precipitate changes, but because they knew that changes must be made, and that Victor P. Richardson was just the man to guide the work.

Mr. Richardson is financially interested in enterprises that give employment to many men, and also owns considerable real estate. His money is invested in Janesville and his interests all lie as much in the growth and prosperity of the Bower City as those of any other resident. His employees are his friends rather than his workmen, and his share of the taxpayers' burden has always been cheerfully carried. Such a man is the republican candidate for mayor. Could a better candidate be found among all the men of the Bower City? Can anything be lost by entrusting the responsibilities of the office of mayor to such a man, placing them in the hands of an energetic, honest, and in every way capable business man?

There can be but one answer to these questions—"No." Mr. Richardson is just the man for the place, and he should receive a rousing majority.

THOROUGHGOOD LEADS DEMOCRATS.

The democratic ticket is now in the field, and is headed by John Thoroughgood. Mr. Thoroughgood has kept his word. On March 16, 1899, The Gazette published a statement signed by him, in which he said:

"I will not ask a re-nomination, BUT IF MY FRIENDS IRRESPECTIVE OF PARTY, feel well disposed toward me, I am at their service."

But one conclusion can be placed upon that sentence—Mr. Thoroughgood must have meant to say that he would accept any nomination that was tendered him regardless of whether it was republican, democratic, or independent. In other words, the sentence justifies the conclusion that the mayor didn't care whose candidate he was, so long as he was somebody's candidate. He has accepted the straight democratic nomination, and is now a straight democrat. He must advocate and represent democratic principles in all that the expression means. W. J. Bryan cannot be his ideal man, free silver his religion, and free trade his most cherished principle. The fact that this is a local campaign in no way changes its political aspect. The issue is republicanism versus democracy, and John Thoroughgood stands for democracy in all its nakedness.

If Mr. Thoroughgood repudiates these democratic principles, he must admit that he is a democrat for office only. If he affirms his belief in the doctrines of which he is the duly chosen representative, he must admit that his "independent candidacies" have been mere vote getting cloaks. In either case, he has no claim on the suffrages of men who are republican or democratic from principle. A man cannot well ride two horses at once.

Nicholas Frederick, the republican candidate for street commissioner, is one of Janesville's pioneer business men, and is in every way deserving of the support of the people. Everyone knows Mr. Frederick, and all know him favorably. For many years he was engaged in the livery business, and spent much of his time riding about town. He is therefore thoroughly posted as to what is needed in making good streets, and his years of business training will be of value to the city in the management of employees and the work. Mr. Frederick will make an excellent street commissioner, and his election is greatly to be desired.

Mayor Thoroughgood says he would be glad to see "state senators, and all other offices of trust receive their appointments in the same way,"—as "independent candidates," either with or without the straight democratic nomination in addition.

Undoubtedly Mayor Thoroughgood was as "greatly surprised" when the democrats nominated him for mayor" two years ago, as he was when the democrats did the same thing again on Saturday night.

George H. Davey has filled the office of sealer of weights and measures with fidelity and to the satisfaction of all. Re-elect him, and make him certain of good service in the future.

A vote for Victor P. Richardson is a vote for better city government. A vote for John Thoroughgood is a vote for the present system. Which do you prefer, tax payers?

Everyone in Janesville knows that S. C. Burnham will make an ideal school commissioner at large. Mr. Burnham is a man of fine abilities, and his election will be credit to the people.

However, most people will still think that a good education, military and otherwise, is of value to any man, and in no way prevents him from being a good citizen.

Arthur E. Badger, the city clerk, knows the routine of his office from A to Z. He is in every way a worthy man, and should be and will be re-elected.

L. F. Patton is one of Rock county veteran attorneys and no lawyer is better or more favorable known. Vote for him for justice of the peace.

And naturally all the other democrats favor the same system of filling "all offices of trust."

ANNUAL MEETING AT THE GROVE

Ladies' Auxiliary of Emerald Grove to Elect Officers Tuesday, April 4.

Emerald Grove, March 27.—The Ladies' Auxiliary will hold their annual meeting for the election of officers at the home of Mrs. Charles Fitch, on Tuesday, April 4, at 2 o'clock. All the members are requested to be present. Miss Nettie Butler, who has been very sick with congestion of the lungs, is now nursing the measles. Hans Hanson and Ray Boynton made a business trip through Delavan and vicinity on Thursday. After an absence of four weeks from the pulpit, on account of sickness in the family and community, the pastor, Rev. Dennis resumed his work on Sunday last. The sick ones are all on the gain but some of them very slowly. May Barless leaves for Chicago this week where she expects to make her home in the future. D. M. Barless will visit relatives in Rush Lake, Wis., before leaving for Chicago.

CONCENTRATE AT MALOLOS.

Gen. Wheaton and his staff close behind and scouts closely observing the ground. When the Americans were within about 300 yards of the intrenchments the Filipinos suddenly volleyed heavily. The twenty-second which was holding the center, suffered considerably, but, with the Oregonians on the left and the Kansas on the right in the woods, the fighting was kept up for half an hour. The twenty-second infantry advancing up the slope, through the thick grass, under the hottest fire.

Gen. Wheaton and his staff were all the time under a rain of bullets. Col. Egbert, who was in the thickest of the fighting, was shot in the abdomen. He was placed on a stretcher and an attempt was made to carry him to the rear, but he died on the way. It was a most affecting scene. Gen. Wheaton, baring his head, said: "You have done nobly." Col. Egbert gasped in reply: "I must die, I am too old."

No Filipinos were found in the trenches. Though apparently their force was much smaller than that of the Americans, they had an immense advantage in position and in opportunity to retreat.

Gen. MacArthur's advance guard, the Third artillery and the Twentieth Kansas regiment, joined Gen. Wheaton's brigade shortly after Manila was taken, approaching along the Novales road westerly. The soldiers were much exhausted and there were several prostrations from the heat, which was intense. The dead and wounded were collected in the shade of the trees and carried on stretchers by Chinese across the river to the train. After lunch Gen. MacArthur's division advanced toward Polo.

Gen. Wheaton's brigade, with the remainder of Gen. MacArthur's division, marched along the railroad to Newcanayan. This place was fortified and for 300 yards from it there were trenches on each side of the track. These were taken possession of by the American troops.

The Filipinos, realizing that the railroad is the crucial line, have constructed row after row of trenches, running diagonally on both sides of the track at a distance of a few hundred yards apart. This work was designed most intelligently and has evidently been done under the direction of experts. It represents an enormous amount of labor. Most of the native positions are protected by thick earthworks, a majority of them topped with stone and provided with loopholes. Some have sheet iron roofs.

The day's work of the United States troops consisted of storming the successive trenches. The Filipinos occupying them were completely hidden. The natives poured a strong fire from every trench until they were disturbed by a flanking volley, when they would disappear into the woods and jungle, only to make a stand at the next line.

The American loss here was remarkably small, seven being reported killed and twenty-five wounded. It is known that the Filipinos were so protected that they suffered little. No dead natives were found in the trenches.

Forty prisoners were taken by the Americans and it is estimated that the native casualties numbered twenty. The Filipinos broke their guns when they were compelled to abandon them.

The Second Oregon regiment encountered 1,000 Filipinos west of Malinta, who were retreating from Malabon. The natives had taken up a position behind four rows of intrenchments, but were driven out after an hour's heavy firing. One Oregonian was killed and five were wounded.

WOMEN VOTED OUT OF MURPHY LEAGUE

IMPORTANT STEP AT SUNDAY MEETING.

Men Say That They Are Not Free To Express Their Thoughts with Women Present—Others Believe Ladies Should Be Made Welcome—S. M. Smith Gives Good Address

No woman is eligible to membership in the Francis Murphy temperance league.

Seventy members of the league in session Sunday afternoon at the Rock County Caledonian society's rooms settled this important question.

The vote was not unanimous.

There were members present who expressed themselves in favor of admitting women to membership, believing that it was much better to have their aid in order to successfully carry on the temperance work in Janesville.

Members of the local Women's Christian Temperance Union were among the strongest supporters of the Murphy movement and their exclusion at this time naturally gave rise to debate.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon men who opposed the admission of women gave several reasons for the adoption of such a by-law. They declared that many men were prevented from expressing themselves freely at the meetings if women were present.

W. G. Kildow strongly favored the admitting of women, believing that with their aid much more good could be done among the drinking classes.

Others favored their presence on the ground that the influence exerted by the young ladies of the city would in time result in the presence of many young men at the Sunday meeting.

After the question had been argued the vote resulted in the excluding of women from membership.

When Dr. James Mills, as president, called the meeting to order seventy men were in attendance. John H. Jones acted as secretary and the address of the afternoon was delivered by S. M. Smith who talked very forcibly.

Secretary Jones told of a letter from Francis Murphy and son stating that they would like to visit Janesville soon. Secretary Jones was instructed to arrange details for bringing Mr. Murphy and his son here at an early date.

Al Smith said that some business men seemed to be afraid to help along the temperance work for fear of injuring their business.

Dr. H. A. Palmer stated that he had been informed that several local business men would not sign the license voting petition for fear it might hurt their business.

Before the meeting closed it was voted to rent the Rock County Caledonian society's rooms and to hold Sunday meetings there every two weeks. It was also proposed that rousing meetings be held quarterly in some public hall to which everybody could be invited—women as well as men.

PICTURES READY FOR CITY SCHOOLS

WALLS TO BE ADORNED DURING VACATION.

Results of the Work of the Janesville Art League Begin to Be Apparent—General Interest Manifested in the Movement Inaugurated by Mrs. Sherwood.

The first pictures for the beautifying of Janesville school rooms have been received by Mrs. Ella Tanberg, president of the Janesville Art League. They are now at her home on South Main street, but will be put into place before the spring term of school opens.

Great care has been used in selecting the first pictures and if the standard thus set is maintained throughout the walls of the city school rooms will be fruitful sources of inspiration.

The pictures are as follows: "Sistine Madonna" by Raphael, given by Janesville Art League; "I Hear a Voice" by Maud Earl; "Mid-day Rest" by Maud Earl; and "Hermes" from the original marble. All of the four are given by the School Art Auxiliary. The pictures are framed very simply but effectively in black, except for the Sistine Madonna, which is in Florentine oak.

They will be placed in the first primary room of the Lincoln school. The walls of this room will be tinted olive green and the school ceiling cream color. The adornment of other Janesville school rooms will follow.

Progress will be made slowly but it is promised that only the best will be admitted to a place in the school collections. The plan to be followed was indicated by Mrs. Tanberg in her address to the Beloit convention, when she said: "We have become interested lately in the artistic adornment of our public school rooms and the Art league has the honor of presenting the first picture to be used in this way, a fine copy of the Sistine Madonna." Mrs. John B. Sherwood, of Chicago, talked to the women's clubs of Janesville early in the new year on Art in the School Room, and as an outgrowth of the interest aroused by her coming, the School Art auxiliary of the Janesville Art league was formed.

This organization had a fast growing membership and has already provided for the placing of good pictures in the school rooms of the city.

For five years the Art league has been trying, by means of lectures by prominent artists and exhibitions of the best pictures and sculpture obtainable, to interest the people in art. A few have appreciated and enjoyed these opportunities, but there are so many others whom we would reach if we could.

"As so far as earnestness of our wish to help them, we have begun at the other end of the line with the children. R. VALENTINE WON'T RUN

Says This Is a Year For Republicans on the Democratic Ticket.

Richard Valentine today sent to Chairman Mount of the democratic city committee the following communication: Janesville, Wis., March 27, 1899.—Mr. P. J. Mount, Chairman Democratic City Committee, Janesville—Dear Sir:—While I was absent from the city my friends were so kind (?) as to nominate me for the exalted office of alderman of the city of Janesville. I wish to thank my friends for their kindly interest, but as I do not need the salary of the office, I must respectfully decline the nomination.

As it seems to be the proper thing this spring, to place democrats on the republican ticket and republicans on the democratic ticket, I suggest the name of that sterling republican leader, Sherman Phelps as the democratic nominee for alderman in the Third ward. Yours respectfully, RICHARD VALENTINE.

ZELTNERS PLACED IN JAIL.

Ohio Murderers Surrender to Ex-Sheriff Biggs.

SANGUINARY AFFAIRS IN OHIO.

Slayers of Two Men Defend Themselves Against a Mob of 1,000 for Many Hours, but Finally Yield—Militia Sent to the Scene.

Bowling Green, Ohio, March 27.—Paul and John Zeltner, slayers of G. H. Westenhaver of North Baltimore and of Clarence Wittenmayer of Hoytville, are now in jail at Bowling Green, where they were placed Sunday at noon, after an all-night siege at the Zeltner homestead, two and one-half miles from Hoytville. The Zeltner brothers at last surrendered, and it is thought Mrs. John Zeltner will also be locked up within the next twenty-four hours.

Since Saturday afternoon two men and a woman held 600 men at bay and the besiegers were augmented after midnight by two companies of militia—the Bloomfield rifles and the North Baltimore cadets.

E. H. Westenhaver, ex-solicitor of North Baltimore, had been attorney for the Zeltner brothers in numerous cases, and had sued them for his fees. The jury and witnesses had been sworn Saturday before Justice E. Burgoon in the township house at Hoyt's Corners, in Westenhaver's suit, when Paul Zeltner demanded some papers from Westenhaver, and attempted to take them from his pocket. John Zeltner then joined in demanding the papers, and immediately fired the fatal shot that killed Westenhaver. As the Zeltners had their horses ready for mounting and escape, it is thought that they had arranged to get Westenhaver into a fight, though they did not give the victim time to make any demonstrations toward them. The Zeltners kept up their firing until they mounted their horses, and continued it as hundreds of citizens pursued them to their residence.

Then the citizens laid siege to the Zeltner house. The brothers kept up a continual firing, and it is declared that the women also engaged in the defense. The battle was waged furiously, the besiegers, including the sheriff's posse, finding it necessary to keep under cover of the trees to avoid being hit.

In the height of the fusillade Clarence Wittenmayer was killed. This increased the excitement, and the mob, now swelled to 1,000 in number, seemed bent upon lynching the Zeltners. To prevent this the sheriff telegraphed to North Baltimore for the militia, and the Bloomfield rifles and the North Baltimore cadets hurried to the scene. Ex-Sheriff Richard Biggs of Bowling Green finally prevailed upon the murderers to surrender, but not until their ammunition was almost exhausted.

The restaurant on the 7th floor of the Association building in La Salle street is also run by this company and is equally inviting and attractive.

More Human Remains Found.
New York, March 27.—Work in the ruins of the Windsor hotel was resumed with a full force of men Sunday, and the piles of debris were heaped up faster than the carts could take them away. The workmen came upon a human foot in a shoe near the Forty-seventh street and Fifth avenue corner of the ruins. The shoe was badly charred and shriveled, and it could not be told whether the foot was that of a woman or a child. A second fragment of a human foot was found late in the afternoon near the Fifth avenue entrance to the hotel. Near the place the workmen found a pair of slippers.

American Bravery Praised.

WINE OF CARDUI

How a Woman Suffers.

HOWELL, IND., NOV. 28.
I will always praise Wine of Cardui. It has done me more good than all the medicines I have ever taken in my life. Please send a book about female diseases to the ladies whose names I enclose.

Mrs. MINNIE STODGHILL.

Wine of Cardui

It isn't necessary for a woman to give particulars. When she says she has "female troubles," other women know what that means. It means days and nights of endless suffering. It means headaches which no tongue can describe. It means that terrible bearing and dragging down in the lower abdomen. It means agonizing backache, and shoulder ache, and arm ache, and aches in the lower limbs. It means nerves on edge—the blues—despondency and loss of hope. It means debilitating drains that the doctors call leucorrhoea. It means martyrdom—sometimes even death seems preferable. And still Wine of Cardui will utterly put those diseases and pains to rout. It has cured thousands of cases when nothing else on earth would. To the budding woman, to the bride, to the wife, to the expectant mother, to those going through the Change of Life, this Vegetable Wine is a blessing.

Suits, Jackets, Capes, Silk Waists And Skirts.

Wednesday, March 29th.

Our opening last Friday was such an unqualified success that Mr. Lewis has offered to be with us one more day before Easter. He will have with him the well known line of "Beifeld" Garments for Ladies, and they will be offered for sale at a slight advance above wholesale cost.

The "Beifeld" Suits at $10 are equal in workmanship to the best, however expensive, and in material and actual value better than most at double the price. The Jackets are lined throughout with satin, double stitched with silk; skirt lined with percaline and interlined, made strictly in the fashion.
